The Central Virginia Emergency Management Alliance (CVEMA) will host another Survivor Day program in 2017. Emergency and community response professionals will teach residents the best ways to prepare for disasters.

Emergencies and disasters are a part of life in Central Virginia - hurricanes, floods, tornadoes, earthquakes, winter storms, and other hazards – we have them all. Survivor Day attendees will learn how to survive in their home without power for at least 72 hours, what to take with them should they need to evacuate and much more.

Those without internet access or requiring assistance with registration should dial 211

Policies for Survivor Day Events

- Central Virginia residents may attend any Survivor Day event offered and are not restricted to Survivor Day events in their own locality of residence.
- Registration is online at www.SurvivorDay.com. Those without internet access may call United Way at 804-771-5874 or the Richmond Regional Planning District Commission at (804) 323-2033 to register.
- Seating is limited and registration is on a first come, first served basis.
- Individuals with disabilities requiring reasonable accommodations should contact Kathy Robins, Senior Planner, at Richmond Regional Planning District Commission at 804-323-2033 or by email at krobins@richmondregional.org at least 10 days prior to the event. Every effort will be made to provide reasonable accommodations.

Survivor Day is presented by CVEMA with funding from the FEMA's Grants Programs Directorate, U.S. Department of Homeland Security. CVEMA is a coalition of local emergency managers and partner organizations from 25 localities in Central Virginia who voluntarily partner with each other to make the Central Virginia region as prepared and resilient as it can be.
